

FIELD INTELLIGENCE · NJQSAC EXTRACTION FINDINGS

The State published the scores. Nobody had ever assembled them.

Every NJQSAC District Performance Review the State Board of Education published between May 2022 and July 2026 — 34 documents, 1,172 district reviews, 730 districts — read, assembled into one record, and verified twice over. Your district is probably in here.

THE 80-POINT LINE

The record has a cliff in it

Every Instruction & Program score the state published, across all 1,172 reviews. The two largest groups in the entire record sit directly either side of the certification gate.

Instruction & Program score, all 1,172 published reviews. The rule marks the 80% certification gate.

Why the cliff matters

A distribution shaped like this is not the shape of district capability. It is the shape of a threshold. The two tallest columns in the record — 278 reviews at 75–79, and 344 at 80–84 — are separated by a few points of a single score, and by the entire difference between certified and monitored.

THE PATTERN IN THE RECORD

The districts that fail aren't weak districts

Of the 583 reviews that ended not-certified, 523 failed on exactly one area — with the other four gates clear, often at 95% and above. Instruction & Program is that sole area in 508 of them. Fiscal Management is the sole area in eight.

Reviews where this was the only area below 80%, of 583 not-certified.

What this means for your district

Certification is not decided by overall administrative strength. It is decided, almost every time, by a single dimension — Instruction & Program — while Fiscal, Governance, Operations and Personnel are already clear.

That is also the dimension no district has assembled evidence for. The work is happening in every building; what the review reads is what gets assembled, and nobody sees the whole line at once.

Which leaves a ready-made list: 267 reviews sit in the near-miss band, failing on Instruction between 75% and 79% with every other area already clear.

THE RULE, VERIFIED

The five gates are absolute

0 of 1,172 published reviews were certified with any dimension below 80

No averaging. No offsets. No exceptions. A 100% Fiscal score buys nothing at a 79% Instruction & Program score.

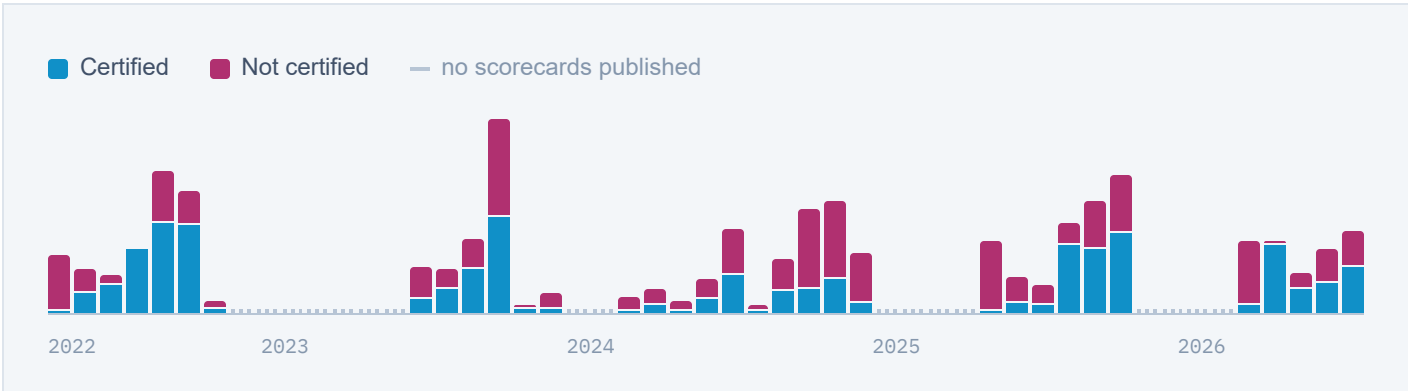

Which means near-perfect performance on four dimensions and a near-miss on the fifth produces exactly the same outcome as failing all five: not certified.

THE PUBLICATION RECORD

The State does not publish on a schedule

Scorecards appear in 34 of the 51 months on record. There is a seven-month silence between December 2022 and July 2023, and no district has ever been published in January or February. No calendar is announced in advance.

For a district, that means there is no reliable month to watch. We read every meeting, every month — including the empty ones.

THE TARGET LIST

267 reviews one adjustment from certification

Instruction & Program between 75% and 79%, every other dimension already clear of the 80% gate. Across 205 districts – 51 of them land in this band more than once, cycle after cycle. Sorted by score, then by name. The four cleared dimensions are omitted – by definition of this band, all of them passed. District names are shortened; "School District" is implied.
